

BURGLAR CONFESSES TO FOUR ROBBERIES

Captured After Fast Chase, He Boasts of His Crimes.

teenth and seventeenth streets, where he stole some money.

Victims Will Look Over Boy.

The police are notifying all of the persons who have seen the negro in their homes to call at the station and see if they can identify Jones.

The negro denies that he was the intruder who twice broke into the home of Gabriel Carol, a retired Cuban capitalist, living at 206 Fifteenth street, during the last week.

Mr. Carol and one of the maids, who saw the negro, have been asked to call at the station and take a look at the prisoner.

I am not the only one who has been doing this work, you know," Jones said. "There are two other boys who worked with me, but there are both locked up. There are Willie Pie and Robert Taylor."

The police records show that Jones' statement about his two alleged accomplices is correct. Pie and Robert Taylor, son of a negro minister, were both arrested by Detectives Burlingame and Weckon several months ago, and are now in the Reform School.

How He Began Theft.

"I tell you how I got into this," continued the youthful prisoner. "I've been in a lot of trouble. I was in a reform school of some kind when I was a kid, but I escaped. Two years ago I robbed a woman of a pocketbook at Scott circle. That was the first time I ever did anything more than fight."

"After that I went to Baltimore and Philadelphia, and I also worked in Culpeper, Va., for a time. In Baltimore I robbed four stores, and got quite a bunch of money from the places."

Andy Lee His Teacher.

"After I came back to Washington I met Lee. He told me how to get into places, and how to get away. Lee always carried a 'jammy' and other tools, but I don't have to have anything like that. I never even carried a revolver."

"After Pie and Taylor got locked up I worked by myself. The trouble was I used to wake people up, and had to get out in a hurry. But it's easy. I wouldn't have been caught this morning if I had been watching and seen the cop coming. He was up to me almost before I knew it."

About two weeks ago Jones was arrested by police of the Eighth precinct for stealing a coat. He gave his age as sixteen, and was put back of the railing in the front room to await the arrival of the wagon from the House of Detention. Watching his opportunity, he vaulted the railing, ran out the door, and escaped, he says, before the police knew what had happened.

Boasts of Crimes.

He also tells how he broke into a store in Fourteenth street, near L street northwest, about a year ago, and stole between $3 and $4 in change.

"As I was coming out," he says, "I dropped all my change. There was no one around, so I took my time and picked it up."

"Oh, it's easy, and I was a fool to get caught."

"WHAT IS WHISKY?" AGAIN IS DEFINED

Cabell's Instructions Alter Regulations Based on Famous Teft Ruling.

Distillates of molasses withdrawn from distilleries at lower than 100 proof, are to be marked "diluted neutral spirits," and if sufficient grain is used, the brand is to be marked "whisky in bond," or where no grain is used, "whisky, a compound."

This is the substance of the instructions sent by Internal Revenue Commissioner Cabell today to revenue agents throughout the country. It alters, in part, regulations put into effect at the time President Teft determined the question "What is whisky?"

FRIGHT MAY CAUSE DEATH OF WOMAN

ASBURY PARK, July 29.—Physicians in attendance on Mrs. M. E. Allendorf, the aged woman who was so badly frightened by a negro burglar at her Ocean Grove cottage that she had a cerebral hemorrhage, have little hope for her recovery.

This morning a statement was made that the hemorrhage has not been entirely reduced, and, because of the great age of the patient, the worst results are feared. Mrs. Allendorf is eighty-three years of age.

She was confronted by a huge negro who carried a dark lantern Wednesday night. She is reported to be very weakly, and neighbors say she keeps large quantities of food.
